

Software Engineer Coding Assessment

Take-Home Addendum

This addendum applies only if your recruiter told you this interview includes independent work before your live session. Read it alongside the main candidate handout — it doesn't repeat the problem itself.

Before Your Session

You'll build the full application described in the main handout on your own time before your interview. In the live session, your interviewer will review your solution and introduce additional, previously-unseen requirements so we can see how you extend a design you already built.

- Complete the full application described in the main handout.
- Send us a zip of your project (code plus a short README) before your session — your recruiter will confirm exactly how and when to send it.
- If you're unable to send it ahead of time, that's fine — just make sure it, and your development environment, are already set up and running on the laptop you'll bring, so we don't lose interview time to setup.
- Bring your laptop to the session either way — you may be asked to run, demo, or make a small change to your own code live.

Individual Work

This is your own individual work. Please don't share your solution with, or look at solutions from, other candidates — we compare notes across candidates, and it's a straightforward way to end an otherwise strong interview.
